Hats Off to Reading

Middle School Reading Contest –
February 25-March 1

In conjunction with Read Across America, a national event held on Dr. Seuss's birthday, the BJA Middle School will be having the annual reading contest. The week will end with a special Dr. Seuss Day for students to dress like a Dr. Seuss character!

The goal for each student is to read 125 pages during the week. Starting at 8 a.m. on Monday, February 25, students may read at home or at school to reach their goal. One class hour each day will be devoted just to reading. Pages will count for homeroom points as well as individual points. Students may bring books from home or check them out from the school library (books should be age and content appropriate; textbooks and e-books will not count). Questions can be directed to Mrs. Christy Hand.
